

ARCHITECT »

Page Goolrick

goolrick.com

Architect and interior and product designer Page Goolrick lives and works in New York City, where the Museum of Modern Art also sells her wares—like a minimalist tape dispenser and business card box.

about

work

tips

We put the spotlight on Goolrick's small space, inspired by her passion for sailing, in our May 2006 Think Small issue.

Favorite room in the house

"The living room. I love to read and listen to music, and it is a place for gathering with friends."

Most recent purchase

"A glass siphon bottle so I can make my own sparkling water rather than buying it bottled."

Currently longing for

"The perfect alarm clock, which I find does not exist so I'm designing one."

TIPS »

Make an Investment in Your Dining Room Lighting

By: Page Goolrick

The dining room pendant light is a wonderful place to make a big splash. Make this a strong focal piece and search for something you love, as if you were buying a painting for an important wall. Spring for a piece by an architect or designer you admire, as you should own this forever and take it with you if you move.

How to Edit Clutter

By: Page Goolrick

Much of what one needs to keep around the home should be concealed to avoid clutter, create a sense of calm, and allow for special objects to be displayed and celebrated. Varying the amount of solid and void spaces within a storage unit allows you to use the space efficiently while animating the space with display items.

The Level Bookcase by Anik Levy for Zanotta.

Whatever is Under the Bed Should be Readily Accessible

By: Page Goolrick

You shouldn't have to tilt the frame or mattress to access anything under the bed.

